1st User Group Meeting

The University of Greenwich at Chatham Maritime is one of the key partners in the new EU Interregional Mobility and Competence Centres in Automation (i-MOCCA) project.

The first User Group session will be held in the second quarter of 2012 (date t.b.c) and we are registering expressions of interest and any enquiries. The session will serve to gather feedback for professionals in engineering, data communication, electronics, embedded systems control and automation related fields to highlight key areas where training and knowledge development would be of high value. This will be used to formulate a series of free advanced training short courses, available to the employees of contributing companies and regional manufacturers. Companies that operate in industrial data communications, electronics control and embedded systems will find this immensely useful.

To register interest in participation, please contact Jason at info@big-kent.org.uk or call on 01634 883912
